WELCOME TO SURREY ARTS

Surrey Arts offers tuition on a large range of orchestral and band instruments, piano, guitar and voice, in over 200 schools across Surrey. We also run ensembles, in which children of all abilities can develop, play and perform.

Our tutors offer teaching of the highest quality. They are assessed by senior staff on a regular basis, and all have an enhanced DBS clearance. We also provide all our staff with regular training and professional development opportunities.

“We are enormously grateful to the Surrey Arts Programme for giving both our children a wonderful introduction into the world of music.”

for your child

Deciding on the right instrument for your child is a difficult but important factor in their continued musical success. Forcing a child to play an instrument rarely leads to the love of music making we want.

In the following pages there are some things to consider when helping your child to choose the right instrument.

INTRODUCTION TO MUSIC LESSONS

Which instruments are taught?

We teach strings, woodwind, brass and percussion plus drum kit, guitar, piano, keyboard, recorder and singing. To find out more information about different instruments visit surreymusicclub.com.

Where do lessons take place?

Lessons normally take place at school during the school day and these may be on a rota basis. Some lessons are available on Saturday and after the school day, depending on the location.

How do I apply?

Simply fill in the application form and return to Surrey Arts or apply online at surreycc.gov.uk/music. We will then contact you to discuss availability and the most appropriate place and time for lessons.

Do you provide group or individual lessons?

We recommend that pupils consider starting with group lessons - most pupils find it more fun to learn with their friends. Group lessons may change over time to accommodate pupils' individual needs. In these cases we will offer the most appropriate group or individual lesson.

What is the cost of lessons?

Fees from September 2018 for a term of 10 lessons are:

£81 (Group of 3/4, 30 minutes)

£81 (Group of 2, 20 minutes)

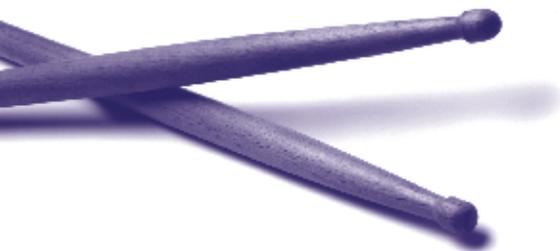

£119 (Group of 2, 30 minutes)

£158 (Individual, 20 minutes)

£225 (Individual, 30 minutes)

Do you offer any concessions?

Yes, please see the Surrey Arts website or call for more information.

INSTRUMENTS WE TEACH

Strings

The strings are the largest family of instruments in the orchestra and come in four sizes: the violin (the smallest), viola, cello, and the biggest: the double bass. The smaller instruments, the violin and viola, make higher-pitched sounds, while the larger cello and double bass produce low, rich sounds.

Stringed instruments are very versatile in their sound and can play almost anything! Solo and ensemble pieces are both enjoyable to play. Strings in an ensemble produce a rich, full sound used in many different styles. In orchestral, pop, jazz and folk music the strings can be seen and heard and enjoyed by all.

When can you start to play?

All the stringed instruments come in different sizes from the small 8th size for the very young to full size. Strings are taught from age 4 (using the Stringbabies programme designed especially for ages 4 to 6 years) through to Year 13.

Woodwind

The woodwind family of instruments includes clarinet, flute, saxophone, piccolo, oboe and bassoon. These are great instruments to play as they are used in classical and jazz music. Bassoons and oboes are played more rarely but are extremely rewarding, especially as musicians who play these instruments will always be in demand!

When can you start to play?

Younger children are normally best advised to work at recorder and transfer to their choice of woodwind instrument when they are old enough (or continue on recorder!).

The starting age is usually Year 4 (aged 8 - 9 yrs old); Year 3 may be possible, but pupils may have problems with small hands. Also, children should have their adult front teeth.

Brass

The brass family contains a variety of instruments. The main instruments are the trumpet, French horn, trombone and tuba. We also teach cornet, tenor horn, euphonium and baritone. The instruments of the brass family are very versatile. The trumpet and trombone are particularly adaptable to all kinds of music and are found in orchestras, windbands, jazz bands and pop groups.

All brass instruments are played in a similar way which involves producing a buzzing sound into a mouthpiece.

Like all orchestral instruments, brass are lots of fun and come to life when played with other people.

When can you start to play?

Most people start to learn a brass instrument from Years 3 or 4. It is helpful for pupils to have their adult front teeth before they start to learn. Cornets and tenor horns are particularly good for younger pupils as they are easier to hold but it is quite straightforward to change instruments should a pupil wish to.

Guitar

One of the most popular instruments young people want to learn is the guitar as it is a very diverse instrument that can be approached and learnt in different ways. The acoustic guitar generally refers to a steel strung guitar that historically comes from a folk background of America, and this developed into the electric guitar. The classical guitar comes from Spain and has nylon strings: this involves learning to read music from a music score and requires a disciplined approach in order to lay a good foundation in playing technique.

When can you start to play?

Getting the correct size and quality of instrument is imperative for the younger student. The nylon strung classical guitar is much kinder to the beginner student and this can be further aided by a guitar foot-stool to ensure a good sitting posture. Students may be able to learn the guitar from Year 2.

Drumkit

The most important aspect about playing an instrument like the drum kit is keeping a steady beat, so that the other instrumentalists in the band will have someone there to “keep time”.

Keeping a beat and a steady rhythm is proven to have positive effects on the mind and body. When learning the drum kit the student will develop a high level of coordination, enabling them to play a different pattern with each limb, ranging from a very simple pattern to highly complex combinations. This can have positive effects in other aspects of life because it enhances “fine motor control”.

When can you start to play?

There is no age restriction; if a child can comfortably sit at the drum kit and reach all of the instruments on it they can learn. It is most common for children to begin when they are in primary school.

Percussion

Percussion instruments come from all over the world and many of them have been played since ancient times. The xylophone, for example, has been played in Africa for hundreds of years. Instruments include drums, cymbals, xylophones, triangles, timpani, gongs - in fact anything that has to be hit in order to make a sound is included in the percussion section (the word “percussion” means “struck”). Percussion instruments are used in all types of music, such as classical, musicals, film music, pop & rock, jazz etc.

When can you start to play?

There’s no minimum or maximum age for these wonderfully versatile instruments. You usually start on the snare drum, then move up to timpani and mallet percussion instruments (marimba, xylophone, vibraphone, glockenspiel).

Piano/keyboard

The piano may be the best known musical instrument. It also has the broadest range of any instrument, so music for all other instruments can be composed on it. It can be played solo, but most other instruments, including the voice, use the piano for accompaniment.

What is the difference between learning the piano and having keyboard lessons?

In keyboard lessons you will learn how to use the various features and functions of the instrument, such as the rhythm, accompaniment and voice sections, as well as learning to read notation. Keyboard students mostly read treble clef notation and chord symbols to start with, whilst piano students learn both treble and bass clef notation.

When can you start to play?

Year 3 is a good age for most to start, although we do take students in Year 2, and, in some cases, Year 1 also. Starting really young doesn't always guarantee getting ahead of the game. The most important thing is to practise regularly in between lessons - ideally every day.

Voice

Singers are grouped into voice types based on the register of their voice: how low and how high they can sing. Young children (boys and girls) sing in the mid soprano register until their voices start to mature, usually around age 12-13 years.

Once voices are mature, they are broadly grouped into: Soprano (high female voice); Alto (low female voice); Tenor (high male voice); and Bass (low male voice). Children's choirs are often divided into soprano and alto parts. Voices take several years to mature and settle into an adult range, usually when a singer is in their mid-20s.

When can you start singing?

One of the wonderful things about singing is that you can start at any age! In fact, many of the world's most successful musicians started their musical journey through singing as a very young child.
